E-Café – We will provide the coffee

THROUGHOUT THE COUNCIL

Foyer Macedonia

As last time in Copenhagen, we plan to open our E-café again this time in Athens.

If you want to have a good cup of coffee, some Greek yoghurt, get away from the big discussions, check your emails, or have a small informal meeting, come to our e-café!

We will make sure there is an internet connection so, if you need to you can work there. Some of the EGP staff will be there as well, so if you have any question related to media, website, newsletter or if you're looking for a chat, don't hesitate to come to us.

We will have TV-screens there, so if you want to show your (campaign) movies, photos, or presentations you're very welcome to. Let us know if you have any special requirements for that.

Hope to see you there, we're open all day!

Workers' rights: Is the crisis creating a race to the bottom?

FRIDAY 14:00

The sovereign debt and financial crisis has brought about worrying trends in labour law reform both in old and new EU Member States. A wave of deregulatory measures of labour law was seen in response to the economic crisis, with the aim of rendering labour markets more flexible. In the name of flexibility, workers' rights have been significantly affected: in many countries collective bargaining was decentralised to company level; periods of notice in case of redundancy were diminished; new reasons were allowed for individual dismissals; new types of contracts with less protection for specific groups (e.g. young workers) were created; rules on compensation of overtime were changed to the detriment of the worker etc. These reforms did not create the extra employment opportunities that were hoped; on the contrary they only lead to precariousness and in work poverty. The "working poor" have become a European reality. Analysing this European reality - are there certain trends to be found in certain groups of countries? What is the real influence of the crisis on the changes underway? What is the Green response to these trends? How can these regressive policies be reversed? With such reforms being imposed also from the Troika (e.g. the 6 days work week in Greece), where is the leverage for change and how can basic workers' rights be protected in Europe?

Input: Marije Cornelissen (Greens/EFA MEP) and Petros Rylmon (Labour Institute - Greek Workers' General Confederation)

Moderator: Pierre Jonckheer (Co-president GEF)

Roundtable on a Green Future of the EU

FRIDAY 16:00

The future of the EU is about the people! Since the beginning of the crisis in 2008, Greens have provided constructive proposals for Green ways out of the crisis. The European Green Party has adopted several documents highlighting the lack of democracy in the decision making process at European level, and the lack of democratic control on the financial measures proposed by the European instances. The Greens pointed out repeatedly that the mantra of 'austerity only' will inevitably lead to a changed perspective for the European Union as such. Under the leadership of EGP co-chairs Monica Frassoni and Philippe Lamberts, a working group has drafted proposals providing answers to the latest developments of the Eurocrisis, as well as indicating a clear perspective for the required changes to make the European Union shock-proof and credible for its citizens. Following the Friday morning session, that will focus on Green ways out of the crisis from the economical and Greek perspective, the afternoon debate will focus on the wider prospect of Green solutions for a European Union based on financial solidity as well as social solidarity.

PROGRAMME HIGHLIGHTS

Bringing the Youth back in - Youth Emancipation as an integrative part for solving the European Crisis FRIDAY 18:00

In Athens the Federation of Young European Greens are focusing their workshop on Youth Emancipation as an integral element in solving the European Crisis, to accompany their resolution on the same topic that will be discussed. The round table discussion will be joined by Michael Afolayan, a Greek migrants' rights activist, Ska Keller, MEP, Delfina Rossi, EP liaison on youth emancipation and FYEG spokesperson Terry Reintke.

LGBT Working Group FRIDAY 18:00

The aim of this WG is to coordinate LGBT activities and information among Green Parties and Parliamentary Groups at the national and EU level as well as to reach out into the LGBT communities in which some of us are present anyway - in order to make the Green presence more visible and recognizable.

On the agenda this time:

- * update on recent developments in the different countries
- * activities of the Intergroup in the European Parliament
- * situation in Greece
- * upcoming activities

EGP Gender Network FRIDAY 18:00

It's an extremely busy time on the gender equality front in Europe, with board room quotas for women at the top of the EU political agenda recently. The Gender Working group will be convening at Athens to discuss with guest Ewa Larsson of Green Women Sweden her report on the 'Green Feminist Economy', to consider the EGP's gender network plan for 2013 and to hear from member parties and the Greens in the EP about the latest state of play in their areas.

ECI - Direct Democracy session organized by the Green Institute Greece FRIDAY 18:00

The workshop aims to examine how the European Citizens' Initiative, a new instrument for citizen participation, can serve the purpose of bringing about more direct democracy and engage Europe's citizens in assuming a more active role in their own affairs. After entering into force in April 2012, the ECI seems to have overcome problems with the online system for collecting signatures and 12 initiatives have been registered so far. Green MEP Gerald Haefner, Daniela Hozhinova, deputy of Democracy International and Wawa Wang, policy advisor 8 hours campaign, will present the process and discuss the particular challenges organizers face in using the ECI instrument, how other informal 1 million signature campaigns actually fared after they reached their target and debate about the extent to which EU institutions are responding to the will of their own citizens.

Saturday, 10 November 2012

Campaign meeting on Shale Gas SATURDAY 15:00

Many of the EGP's member parties are at the forefront of combatting the rise of 'unconventional fossil fuels', particularly the drive for shale gas extracted through the environmentally damaging process of hydraulic fracturing ("fracking"). This workshop will focus on campaigning tactics for parties facing shale exploration in their countries and will be of special interest to those responsible for the campaigns in their party.

PLENARY: Migration in Greece and Europe - Compassionate Solutions and Combatting Racism SATURDAY 11:30

The inefficiency of Greece's asylum and legal migration system cannot be blamed on the ongoing economic and social crisis, however the worsening economic conditions of the country certainly added to the problem. Despite international law regulating the issue of migrants, a total lack of safeguard characterises the full range of asylum and deportation methods in Greece. The discussion on migration and asylum seekers' rights is crucial for Europe, where the attitude of many member states, and the way the crisis has been managed, does not live up to the declarations made by these same countries about democracy and human rights.

Speakers: George Tsarbopoulos, Director of UNHCR Greece, Lauretta Macauley (President, United African Women Organisation), Judith Sargentini MEP, Maria Kalli-Piniou (Greek Ecologist Greens)

Beyond growth/degrowth SATURDAY 15:00

The 3rd edition of the Green European Journal was on the subject of 'beyond growth/degrowth', with a series of articles from thinkers inside and outside of the green movement who discussed the issue of economic growth: is economic growth a possibility any more, and is it desirable? Is this a debate that is worthwhile for the Green movement, and if so, what should its contribution be? We aim to continue this debate at the Council, with two authors from the edition joining us to give their somewhat contrasting views on the prospects for sustainable growth in Europe.

Speakers: Aurélie Maréchal, author of 'No growth? In search of another path for Europe'
Jaakko Stenhal, author of 'Getting markets to work for green politics'
 Moderator: Benoît Lechat, Editor-in-chief of the Green European Journal

Green Councilors' Network SATURDAY 16:30

Chaired by EGP Committee member and Vienna Councilor Monika Vana, the Councilors' Network aims to make the Green ideal of 'think global, act local' a reality, and to allow Green local government representatives to share best practices and experiences for their mutual benefit. At this meeting we will discuss the 5 year EGP action plan for local councilors, get the report from the Greens in Big Cities conference and hear best practices from Pierre Hémon, Deputy Mayor of Lyon.

Who, why, when, where - the importance of nomination committees SATURDAY 16:30

The pros and cons of nomination committees - a way to strengthen internal democracy, find better candidates, ensure that not only the loudest voices are heard, and get working groups with better diversity.

A training by the Swedish Greens.

The politics of local transition movements

SATURDAY 16:30

At a time of economic crisis in Europe, what opportunities exist for the Greens to work with the move towards local economies, expressed by the "Transition movement" or the "Do it yourself movement" and other social actors that develop local economic alternatives to cope with the crisis and with austerity? And as this crisis impacts on European countries in different ways, what are the crucial differences that exist between these movements towards localisation and towards their relationship with politics?"

*Speakers: Orestes Kolokouris, University of Athens, Greece
Sarah Nicholls, Transition Network, UK
Dick Pels, Bureau de Helling, Netherlands*

Moderating: Kristóf Szombati, Green European Journal (tbc)

Workshop on Industrial Policy

SATURDAY 16:30

Mining is back on the agenda in Europe due to volatile prices and limited access to scarce resources, threatening the NATURA 2000 guidelines. Greens have long experience of dealing with the environmental and social consequences of mining. This workshop brings together representatives of the Swedish, Bulgarian, Greek and Finnish Greens to share common and disparate perspectives and to consider which regulations and policies should European Greens pursue. Reinhard Bütikofer, MEP is in the chair.

PLENARY: Digital Ecology

SATURDAY 18:30

How should the Greens address the issue of Digital rights, and what perspectives should we embrace following the defeat of ACTA a few months ago? Digital rights are a relevant component of individual rights and privacy in the 21st century, and the Greens have been the champions of the ACTA defeat, fundamentally coordinating actions at the European Parliament. During the plenary session at the Athens Council, we will address the ongoing structure of individual rights, reflecting on the scope of digital information and the potential offered. The debate will involve representatives of civil society. It will be the first time that the topic is discussed in plenary at inter-European party level, and we will build upon the work already conducted by Greens at national and at European level.

Besides the plenary discussion, a dedicated working group session is organized to discuss the development of the policy paper, prepared by the Digital Rights working group, with representatives of the parties, that will be voted at the Spring Council.

Introductory keynote speech by Eva Lichtenberger MEP,

Speakers: Jérémy Zimmermann (Co-founder, La Quadrature Du Net, France)

Christiana Mauro (Legal Advocate, AK Vorrat, Germany)

Walter van Holst (Vice-President, European Digital Rights Initiative, Netherlands)

Moderated by Jan Philip Albrecht MEP, Chair of the EGP Working Group on Digital Rights
